

College Bowl preliminaries select possible contestants

Preliminary screening to select four students to represent BYU on "College Bowl," General Electric's CBS television network presentation, Dec. 31, will be held Monday and Tuesday at 4 p.m. in 172 Knight Bldg., said Robert Thomas, chairman of the student selection committee.

The College Bowl is an inter-collegiate game, broadcast on Sunday from 6:30 to 7 p.m., and offers the winning school a $1,500 scholarship from the Grant Scholarship fund.

EACH WEEK two colleges select teams of four undergraduate students who are asked questions drawn from such fields as American and European history, current affairs, science and the Bible. These nations have announced points and the team earning the greater number of points wins.

Since the questions are designed to test the ability of students to recall facts," said Thomas, "we are looking for students strong in this who need not have a high degree-point average."

Any student who wants to be in the preliminary test may do so by contacting Mr. Thomas before Monday at Ext. 2494. A test score will not be related to anyone other than the student taking the test, and the judging committee, remarks Mr. Thomas.

STUDENTS with the highest scores on the preliminary test will be selected as finalists and undergo further screening. The candidates will then be selected and announced before Christmas vacation.

The College Bowl program originates from a CBS station in New York City. The four team members and their coach will travel to New York at the expense of and receive a stipend from G.E. even if they do win.

grad gets $3,200 search grant

BYU graduate chemistry student, John D. Hale of Salt Lake City, has received a $3,200 grant from the National Institute of Health.

Dr. Hale was awarded the grant for research toward the completion of a doctoral degree in chemistry. His research is "Application of the Ligand Field Theory in Biological Systems."

THE RESEARCH will aid in understanding the role of metalloproteins in research and biological processes.

It is also expected to prove validity of the Ligand Field theory. The theory, proposed by British scientist, states that a metal can attract another metal or series of elements.

HALE RECEIVED his B.S. degree from BYU in 1957 and now is in his third year of graduate study towards a Ph.D. He filled an LDS mission in Germany from 1957 to 1960. He was married last year to Norma D. Perkins of Granger, Utah.

Service unit sets Chest fund drive

The Campus Chest Drive sponsored by Intercollegiate Knights will be held during the week of Nov. 27 to Dec. 1, announced Jim Beate, IK vice duke.

THE CAMPUS Chest now under the direction of the IK's for the second year is an equivalent of the Community Chest where money received is given to various organizations in America that are in need of financial assistance.

Beate remarked that the Campus Chest has been sponsored by the student body as a whole, until last year when it was turned over to the IK's. Paul Edmunds is chairman of the Chest Drive this year.

INCORRECT information was reported in yesterday's Universe concerning the sponsorship of the drive and its connection with the ugly man contest.

In conjunction with the Campus Chest, Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity will sponsor an ugly man contest. Under the chairmanship of Rudy Gomez, the ugly man contest will be a means of raising money that Alpha Phi Omega will donate to the Campus Chest Drive.

SERVICE UNITS, social units and other campus organizations have been asked to sponsor an ugly man contest. They are to publicize their ugly man so that he will receive the most votes at a penny a vote, Gomez explained.

The unit whose ugly man wins the contest by having the most money donated in his name will win the trophy for his sponsoring unit. The trophy will be awarded at the dance following the UCLA-BYU basketball game Dec. 1.

Arab authority to address forum

An author of some 33 books and an internationally recognized authority on Morocco and the Arab world will be guest speaker at Monday's forum assembly.

Rom Landau, professor of Islamic and North African studies at the Academy of Asian Studies at San Francisco and College of the Pacific, will address BYU faculty and student body in the Smith Fieldhouse at 10 a.m.

PROFESSOR Landau, who is a lifelong student of Arab and

Islamic affairs, has written the only history of Twentieth Century Morocco in existence, "Moroccan Drama 1800-1953."

In all, he has written seven books on Morocco, notable among which are "The History of Moorish Culture" and "Moroccan Journal."

He has also written books on philosophy, religion, world affairs, biographies and fiction. His "God Is My Adventure" is a famous international best-seller, now in its 15th edition since it first came out in 1935. He has traveled extensively in the Middle East and for the past decade has made annual visits to Morocco.

Before World War II, Landau was a co-founder of the World Congress of Faiths in London, of which Herbert Hoover was a vice-president.

DURING THE war he was an air-gunner in the Royal Air Force before serving in the Foreign Office in London where he worked in political intelligence dealing with Arab affairs.

He has made lecture tours dealing with Morocco throughout the United States and Canada.

According to information received at BYU News Bureau it has been said that "he has an eye for the realities underlying diplomatic verbiage that clouds so much of the present thinking about the Arab world. His years of first-hand study of this troubled sector lend weight and authority to what he has to say."

Security offers warning to drivers

To students who will be driving home for the holidays, Capt. Sven C. Nielsen of the Security Dept. suggests they be considerate of their lives.

"I am aware we get saturated with safety sermons," Capt. Nielsen said. "But students must realize that an accident or death can happen to them."

CAPT. NIELSEN recalled the first accident he investigated as a rookie policeman in Los Angeles was on a Thanksgiving day. He said a car had overturned and pinned the driver underneath it. "The car caught fire and I couldn't get to the driver so I had to stand by and watch him burn to death," he related.

When he went to inform the man's wife of the death, Capt. Nielsen said, the woman told him he must be mistaken, because "that couldn't happen to us."

The Security Dept. captain stated that he had investigated enough accidents and seen enough death from them to assure students that it can happen to them.

be "grateful for the plenty amidst which we live."

"But in the midst of our thanksgiving, let us not be unmindful of the plight of those in many parts of the world to whom hunger is no stranger, and the plight of those millions more who live without the blessings of liberty and freedom."

"LET US," the President concluded, "observe this day with reverence and with prayer that will rekindle in us the will . . . not only to preserve our blessings, but also to extend them to the four corners of the earth."

Reiterates 92nd Psalm . . .

JFK proclaims thanks day

by Louis Cassels

WASHINGTON, (UPI)—"It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord."

That conviction was expressed about 2,500 years ago by the unknown Hebrew poet who composed the 92nd Psalm.

It is reiterated by President Kennedy in his official proclamation calling on Americans to observe a day of national Thanksgiving.

PRESIDENTIAL proclamations of national holidays usually are dull, routine documents which are largely ignored by the press and public.

Once in a while they sound as if they might have come from the heart of the man who occupies the world's loneliest pinnacle of power and responsibility.

That year's Thanksgiving proclamation from the White House may deserve at least a few moments' attention from the 180 million people to whom it is addressed.

"We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength, and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope."

"WE GIVE thanks, too, for our freedom as a nation; for the strength of our arms and the faith of our friends; for the beliefs and confidence we share; for our determination to stand firmly for what we believe to be right, and to resist mightily what we believe to be base; and for the heritage of liberty bequeathed by our ancestors which we are privileged to preserve for our children and our children's children."

He said Americans should also

That year's Thanksgiving proclamation from the White House may deserve at least a few moments' attention from the 180 million people to whom it is addressed.

"I URGE ALL citizens," the President said, "to make this Thanksgiving not merely a holiday from their labors, but rather a day of contemplation."

He reminded Americans that their Pilgrim ancestors instituted the observance. Thanksgiving, more than three centuries ago, at a time when they had barely survived "a year of hardship and pestil" and were still surrounded by "grave and unknown dangers."

"THIS YEAR," as the harvest draws near to its close and the year approaches its end, awesome perils again remain to be faced.

"Yet we have, in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings."

"We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength, and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope."

He said Americans should also

Cougars ready for final grid game

A third place finish, something that would add a little luster to a rough-out season, will be the goal of BYU's football team Saturday when the Cougars close out the year against New Mexico.

THE WINNER of Saturday afternoon's game in Albuquerque will be the Utah for third place in the Skyline's final standings, while the loser will have to be satisfied with a tie with Montana for fifth place.

Since the Lobos have the best overall record (5-4 against BYU's 2-7), plus a few other advantages, they should be favored when the two teams go for the 1-30 kickoff in University Stadium.

THE CATS are still licking wounds resulting from their 6-35 loss to Oregon State last weekend in Corvallis. The setback was a nightmare of mis-cues and bobbles, although BYU played very well in the second half. The Cougars were held scoreless for the first time this season.

At one time during the game the Cougars were in easy scoring position on the one-yard line when a fumble gave the ball to the Beavers. It was only one of six fumbles made by the Mountain Cats against CSU.

TUESDAY FOUND BYU battling snow and cold winds on the practice field, and it's possible the Cougars won't be able to have a good outdoor workout before they have to leave Provo for Albuquerque next Friday.

"We were brutally out-manned by Oregon State," observed head coach Hal Mitchell at the conclusion of Saturday's game. "They were big and deep, and we made too many mistakes to stay with them."

For the pounding they took in the game, the Cougars came out of the game in good shape with only minor injuries.

PAUL "HOISE" ALLEN, the senior wingback who leads the Cougars in scoring didn't make the trip to Oregon because of a leg injury. Unless the injury heals faster than it has during the last week Allen will miss the last game Saturday.

If the Cougars are to claim a victory Saturday in Albuquerque, they will have to strengthen their defenses.

Frosh prep for tilt with varsity

The odds are lopsided, but you still will have a hard time convincing Pete Witbeck and the Y's freshman basketball team they don't have a good chance against the varsity eagles in the season tipoff Friday night in Provo.

STAN WATTS' '62 model will be unveiled in a freshman-varsity game scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday in the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse.

The sneak preview will be a regulation contest with both units substituting liberally. The full scale scrimmage will be the Y's last public showing before the Cougars open the season a week later in two games at home against UCLA.

COACH WITBECK, now in his third season with the frosh, is expected to have a better balanced team than he had last year. Four of the frosh players are 6-5 or taller, and there's good all-around talent on the guard line.

Once they weather Friday night's game with the varsity, the frosh will be limited to intrasquad contests during pre-season play. They will open a 14-game schedule Jan. 6 against New College.

Other opponents listed on the frosh schedule are Weber, College of Southern Utah, Snow, Carbon, Idaho State, Utah, Utah State, and Hill Air Force Base.

Fieldhouse to stay open during recess

The entire Smith Fieldhouse will be open to students and faculty during Friday and Saturday of Thanksgiving vacation, according to Jay Naylor, director of the men's intramural program at BYU.

EQUIPMENT may be checked out from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for basketball, volleyball, badminton, handball, boxing and weight lifting, Mr. Naylor said.

Paddle ball equipment is also available, he pointed out, calling the game "one of the most popular on campus." The west extension of the Fieldhouse will be open for football, he continued.

"WE INVITE everyone to come and use the facilities," Mr. Naylor said.

In previous years 200 to 300 persons have come to the Fieldhouse during the vacation period, he added. The Fieldhouse will also be open during the Christmas holidays, he remarked, although more students remain in Provo during Thanksgiving.

See staffer for dinner

If for any reason students have discovered at the last minute that they must remain in Provo for the Thanksgiving holidays, they may still eat a home-cooked Thanksgiving dinner.

Students finding themselves in this situation should contact Mrs. Elva Davis in the student center.

Writer defines reaction types to bomb tests

by George J. Marder

WASHINGTON, (UPI)—The people of the world fall into four categories of reaction to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's nuclear bomb rattling.

THEY ARE the angry, the fearful, the bewildered, and the ignorant.

Almost all the Russian people are in the ignorant class. They don't know what has gone on because their government does not think they have the right to know, or fears their reaction if they were fully informed.

THE REACTION of the remainder of the world will have much to do in deciding whether the bomb-testing paid off—whether nuclear blackmail, as the White House called it, pays off.

President Kennedy is convinced that the testing of Khrushchev's super bomb—50 megatons or larger—was a political rather than a military act. As the White House put it in a formal statement:

"THE TESTING of this device (is) primarily an incitement to fright and panic in the cold war."

Military men never under rate the value of the people. It is a factor much greater than weapons themselves in waging war, psychological or otherwise.

coordinator's office, basement Student Service Center by 4 p.m. Wednesday, said Emma Jones, chairman of campus Thanksgiving activities.

Wye Mag seeks stories

Students are urged to spend some of their time during the Thanksgiving holidays looking through old manuscripts or writing new ones for submission to the Wye Magazine, said Judy Bubb, Wye editor.

"It is a good time to get some things to submit for publication in the January issue of the Wye."

The deadline of Dec. 5, is drawing near. Students who wish to see their literary talents printed in the Wye should hurry and turn in material to the Wye staff, Miss Bubb said.

Universe gives awards

Awards in writing and photography were given by the Daily Universe to three staff members Tuesday.

Diana McFarland, sophomore, Arimo, Idaho, received a prize for the "feature of the week." The "story of the week" award went to Frank Aydelotte, junior, Provo.

Photographer George Redd, junior, Sonora, Mexico, produced the "picture of the week."

Aydelotte is a Journalism major. Miss McFarland is majoring in English and Redd in electrical engineering.
